About Me

During my school education I had an interest in Technologies and Art. With time I found that Front-End Development is the best of both worlds. My passion and curiosity about how things work led me to coding process and showed me the magic of the Web and combining it with Aesthetics I think is what catches the eye. The moment I made my first lines of programming I knew I was hooked. What started with a simple "Hello, world" and "My first website" has become a full-fledged passion that gets more exciting with the years.
